

|                         | Year 1   | Year 2   | Year 3   | Year 4   | Year 5   | Year 6   |
|-------------------------|--|--|--|--|--|--|
| Phonics anddecoding | I can use my phonicknowledge and skills todecode words.I can blend sounds inunfamiliar words using GPCsthat have been taught.I can correctly read aloudbooks which are matched tomy developing phonicknowledge.I can read words containing-s, -es, -ing, -ed, and estendings.I can reread texts to buildup flency and confidence inword reading. | I can apply my phonic knowledgeand skills to decide until I candecode automatically.I can read most words quickly andaccurately, without overt soundingand blending.I can read accurately by blendingthe sounds in words that containthe graphemes taught so far andrecognising alternative sounds forgraphemes.I can use my knowledge of prefixesand suffixes to help me to decodeand understand what I have read.I can read aloud books closelymatched to my phonic knowledge,sounding out unfamiliar wordsaccurately and automatically.I can reread books to build upfluency and confidence in wordreading. | I can use my phonicknowledge to decode quicklyand accurately (may still needsupport to read longerunknown words).I can apply my growingknowledge of root words andprefixes, including in-, im-, il-,ir-, dis-, mis-,un-, re-, sub-, inter-, super-,anti- and auto- to begin toread aloud.I can apply my growingknowledge of root words andsuffixes/word endings,including - ation, -ly, -ous, -ture, -sure, -sion, -tion, - ssionand -cian, to begin to readaloud. | I can read most wordsfluently and attempt todecode any unfamiliarwords with increasingspeed and skill.I can apply myknowledge of rootwords, prefixes andsuffixes/word endingsto read aloud fluently. | I can read most words fluentlyand attempt to decode anyunfamiliar words with increasingspeed and skill, recognising theirmeaning through contextualcues.I can apply my growingknowledge of root words,prefixes and suffixes/ wordendings, including -sion, -tion, -cial, - tial, -ant,-anc,- ancy, -ent,-ence, -ency, -able,-ably and -ible/ibly, to read aloud fluently | I can read fluently withfull knowledge of all Y5/Y6 exception words, rootwords, prefixes,suffixes/word endingsand decode anyunfamiliar words withincreasing speed andskill, recognising theirmeaning throughcontextual cues. |

| Fluency                    | I can accurately read textsthat are consistent with mydeveloping phonicknowledge, that do notrequire them to use otherstrategies to work outwords.I can reread texts to buildup fluency and confidence inword reading | I can read aloud books (closelymatched to my improving phonicknowledge), sounding outunfamiliar words accurately,automatically and without unduehesitation.I can reread these books to build upfluency and confidence in wordreading.I can read words accurately andfluently without overt sounding andblending, e.g. at over 90 words perminute, in age- appropriate texts. | <ul> <li>Fluency will be monitoan adult.</li> </ul>   | g supports the developmentred through WCR sessions:   |   |  |
|----------------------------|---|--|--|---|---|--|
|                            |   |  | Vocabulary   |   |   |  |
| Build a widevocabulary | I can make collections ofinteresting words and usethem when talking aboutbooks and stories.   | I can develop understanding ofwords met in reading. Speculatingabout the possible meaning ofunfamiliar words that I have read.   | I can identify where an authoruses alternatives andsynonyms for common oroverused words and speculateabout the shades of meaningimplied. | I can consider a writer'suse of specific andprecise nouns,adjectives, verbs andadverbs and discuss themeanings conveyed.I can investigate themeaning of technical orsubject specific words Imeet in my reading. | I can distinguish betweeneveryday word meaningsand their subject specificuse, e.g. the specificmeaning of force in scientifictexts and how it can beused outside science. | I can collect unfamiliarvocabulary from texts that Ihave read, define meaningsand use the vocabularywhen recording ideas aboutthe text.I can collect and definetechnical vocabulary met inother subjects, e.g.developing subject or topicglossaries. |

| Using adictionary              | With support, I am startingto use a dictionary to locatewords by the initial letter. | I can use dictionaries to locatewords by the initial letter.I can use terms such as definition.I can discuss the definitions given indictionaries and agree which is themost useful in the context.   | I can locate words in adictionary by the first twoletters.  | I can locate words in a dictionary by the third and fourth place letters.   | I can use dictionarieseffectively to locate wordmeanings and otherinformation about words;understanding abbreviationsand determining whichdefinition is the mostrelevant to the context.I can use a dictionary tocheck a suggested meaning.  | I can use dictionaries,glossaries confidently andefficiently in order to locateinformation about wordsmet in reading.I can identify the mostappropriate meaning of aword used in a text fromalternative definitions givenin a dictionary.   |
|------------------------------------|--|---|---|---|--|---|
| Explain themeaning ofwords | I can discuss wordmeanings, linking newmeanings to those alreadyknown            | I can discuss and clarify themeanings of new words, linking newmeanings to known vocabulary.I am beginning to use a range ofskills (morphology and wordclasses) to identify the meaning ofunknown words to help place theminto context. | I am applying my growingknowledge of root words,prefixes and suffixes tounderstand the meaning ofnew words I meet.I can practise re-reading asentence and reading on inorder to locate or infer themeaning of unfamiliar words. | I can apply my growingknowledge of rootwords, prefixes andsuffixes to understandthe meaning of newwords I meet.I can identify unfamiliarvocabulary and adoptappropriate strategies tolocate or infer themeaning, including re-reading surroundingsentences and/orparagraphs to identify anexplanation or develop asensible inference. | I can apply my growingknowledge of grammar,morphology and etymologyto understand the meaningof new words that theymeet in context.I can give increasinglyprecise explanations of wordmeanings that fit with thecontext of the text that Iam reading.In persuasive writing andother texts, I can investigatehow language is used topresent opinion.I can distinguish betweenfact, opinion and fiction indifferent texts; biography,autobiography, argument. | I can apply my growingknowledge of grammar,morphology and etymologyto understand the meaningof new words that I meetin context.I can check the plausibilityand accuracy of myexplanation of, or inferenceabout, a word meaning.In autobiography,biographical and in textswritten for mixed purpose(leaflets that are bothinformative andpersuasive), I candistinguish between fact,opinion and fiction. |

| Identify howlanguagecontributesto meaning | I can explore patterns oflanguage and repeatedwords and phrases infamiliar stories.I can identify and discusssome key elements of storylanguage.  | I can investigate traditional storylanguage, e.g. story openers andendings, language to show time.I can speculate about why anauthor might have chosen aparticular word and what was thedesired effect, by consideringalternative synonyms.   | I can discuss the languageused to create significantaspects of a text; opening,build up, atmosphere and howa writer implies as well astells.I can discuss author's choiceof words and phrases thatdescribe and create impact;adjectives and expressiveverbs. | I understand howwriters use figurativeand expressive languageto create images andatmosphere; createmoods, build tension,describe attitudes oremotions.I can discuss themeaning of similes.   | I can discuss the meaning offigurative language(metaphors and similes) andidiomatic words and phrasesused in a text, beginning toexplain the purpose andimpact of such choices.I can investigate howwriters use words andphrases for effect; topersuade, to conveyfeelings, to entice a readerto continue.    | I can identify and discussidiomatic phrases,expressions andcomparisons (metaphors,similes and embeddedmetaphors), usingappropriate technicalvocabulary.I can consider how authorshave introduced andextended ideas aboutcharacters, events or topicsthrough language choice.I can comment critically onhow a writer uses languageto imply ideas, attitudesand points of view. |
|---|---|---|--|--|---|---|
|   |   |   | Retrieval 🔍  |  |   |   |
| Retrieveinformationfrom texts                 | I can discuss characters'appearance, behaviour andthe events that happen tothem, using details from thetext.I can find specificinformation in simple textsthat I have read or thathave been read to me aboutan event, character or topic. | I can identify what is known forcertain from the text aboutcharacters, places and events innarrative and about different topicsin non-fiction.I can give reasons why thingshappen where this is directlyexplained in the text.I can locate information usingcontents, sub- headings, pagenumbers etc. | I can locate, retrieve andcollect information from textsabout significant elements oraspects; characters, events,topics.I can take information fromdiagrams, flow charts andforms where it is presentedgraphically.  | I can identify anddiscuss key sentencesand words in texts whichconvey importantinformation aboutcharacters, places,events, objects or ideas.I can take informationfrom diagrams, flowcharts and forms whereit is presentedgraphically. | I can establish what isknown about characters,events and ideas in bothnarrative and non- fiction,retrieving details andexamples from the text tosupport their understandingor argument.I can locate informationconfidently and efficiently,using the full range offeatures of the informationtext being read. | I can use evidence fromacross a text to explainevents or ideas.I can identify similaritiesand differences betweencharacters, places, events,objects and ideas in texts.I can retrieve informationfrom texts and evaluate itsreliability and usefulness.   |

| Ask retrievalquestions                   | I can ask questions tounderstand what hashappened in stories I haveread or been read to me.                          | I can ask what, where, and whenquestions about a text to supportand develop my understanding.  | I can clarify my understandingof events, ideas and topics byasking questions about them.  | I can identify elementsof a text which I do notunderstand and askquestions about it.   | I can ask questions to clarifymy understanding of words,phrases, events and ideas indifferent texts   | I can ask questions toclarify my understanding ofwords, phrases, events andideas in different texts.  |  |  |
|--|--|--|---|--|---|---|--|--|
| Answerquestionsand recordanswers | I can match events tocharacters in narrative anddetail and information toobjects or topics in non-fiction texts. | I can retrieve information from atext and re-present it in a variety offorms; matching and linkinginformation, ordering and copying. | I can use different formats toretrieve, record and explaininformation about what I haveread in both fiction and non-fiction texts; flow charts, forand against columns, matricesand charts. | I can retrieve and collectinformation fromdifferent sources and re-present it in differentforms; chart, poster,diagram.I can answer questionson a text using differentformats. | I can use different formatsto capture, record andexplain what they haveread.I can recognise differenttypes of comprehensionquestions(retrieval/inferential) andknow whether theinformation required will beexplicitly stated or implied inthe text.I can answer questionsrequiring open-endedresponses. | I can record detailsretrieved from the text in avariety of ways; true/falsegrid, comparisons table.I can recognise differenttypes of comprehensionquestions(retrieval/inferential) andknow whether theinformation required will beexplicitly stated or impliedin the text.I can vary the readingstrategies I have used andmode of answeringaccording to what isexpected of me by thequestion. |  |  |
| XXX <sub>Summarising</sub>            |  |  |   |  |   |   |  |  |

|   | I can identify and discuss the settingand names of characters in a story.                                    | I can retell a story giving the mainevents.I can retell some important  | I can retell main points of a story in sequence.I can identify a few key points   | I can summarise asentence or paragraphsby identifying the mostimportant elements.   | I can make regular, briefsummaries of what I'veread, identifying the keypoints.   | I can make regular, briefsummaries of what they'veread, linking their summaryto previous predictions   |  |  |  |
|---|--|---|---|---|---|--|--|--|--|
| Sequence/Summarise          |  | I can receive some importantinformation they've found out froma text.I can draw together informationfrom across a number of sentencesto sum up what is known about acharacter, event or idea. Choosefrom given ideas. | from across a non-fictionpassage.   | I can make briefsummaries at regularintervals when reading,picking up clues andhints as well as what isdirectly stated. | I can summarise asubstantial section of text orshort story.I can summarise what isknown about a character,event or topic, explain anyinferences and opinions byreference to the text. | about the text. Update theirideas in light of whatthey've just read.I can summarise 'evidence'from across a text toexplain events or ideas.I can summarise theircurrent understandingabout a text at regularintervals. |  |  |  |
|   | Inference  |   |   |   |   |  |  |  |  |
| Inferfromwhatcharacterssayanddo | I can speculate about characters fromwhat they say and do, e.g. when roleplaying parts or reading aloud. | I can make inferences aboutcharacters from what they say anddo, focusing on important momentsin a text.   | I can understand how what acharacter says or does impactson other characters, or onevents described in thenarrative.I can infer characters' feelingsin fiction. | I can deduce thereasons for the way thatcharacters behave fromscenes across a shortstory.                                   | I can understand what isimplied about charactersand make judgements abouttheir motivations andattitudes from the dialogueand descriptions.  | I can understand what isimplied about charactersthrough the way they arepresented, includingthrough the use of anarrator or narrative voice,explaining how thisinfluences the readers' viewof characters.                  |  |  |  |

| Identifyingevidencetosupport andjustifyopinions | I can make inferences about charactertypes based on actions; good / bad /hero etc.I can make links to personalexperiences when inferring. | With support, I can answer simpleinference questions about characterfeelings by making a point andsupporting it with 'evidence' fromthe text.I can draw upon knowledge of thetopic outside the book includingother similar books when givingreasons for an opinion. | I can re-read sections of textscarefully to find 'evidence' tosupport my ideas about a text.I can answer simple inferencequestions about characterfeelings, thoughts and motivesby making a point andsupporting it with 'evidence'from a text. | I can support their ideasabout a text by quotingor by paraphrasing fromit.I can answer inferentialquestions aboutcharacter feelings,thoughts and motivesfrom their actions atdifferent points in thestory, both orally and inwriting by making apoint, providing evidenceand explaining it. | I can identify andsummarise evidence fromacross a text to support ahypothesis.Infer and explain howcharacter feelings, thoughtsand motives have changedover the course of the text.I can identify statements offact and opinion. | I can identify material fromtexts to support anargument, know when it isuseful to quote directly,paraphrase or adapt.I can identify andsummarise evidence fromacross a text to support ahypothesis.I can identify statements offact and opinion. |  |  |
|---|---|---|--|---|--|--|--|--|
| Askinferentialquestions   | I can ask questions to explore what characters say and do.  | I can ask questions to understandmore about characters and eventsin narrative or the topic in non-fiction.  | I can ask questions to developunderstanding of characters'feelings and actions, or tounderstand significant detailsabout a topic.  | I can ask questions toclarify theirunderstanding of what isimplied about mainideas, themes andevents in texts they haveread.  | I can recognise where theydon't understand whysomething happens in a textand ask questions to clarifymy understanding.   | I can ask questions toclarify and explore myunderstanding of what isimplied in the text.   |  |  |
| Predicting  |   |   |  |   |  |  |  |  |

| Predicting   | I can predict whether a book will bestory or non-fiction based on the coverand title.I can use titles, cover pages, picturesand opening sections of texts to predictthe content of unfamiliar stories andnon- fiction texts.I can predict what might happen basedon what has been read so far. | I can make predictions prior toreading based upon the title, coverand skim reading of illustrations.I can make plausible predictionsbased upon events in the text so farshowing an understanding of theideas, events or characters I amreading about. | I can make predictions prior toreading based upon the title,cover and skim reading ofillustrations, contents pageand headings.I can predict from what I haveread or had read to me, howincidents, events, ideas ortopics will develop or beconcluded.I can make predictionsdrawing on knowledge fromother texts or backgroundtopic knowledge. | I can make predictionsprior to reading aboutthe likely type ofcharacters or events in astory based upon thefront cover, title,knowledge of the authorand different genres ofwriting.I can use informationabout characters tomake plausiblepredictions about theiractions, identifyingevidence in the text.I can make predictionsdrawing on knowledgefrom other texts. | I can make predictionsabout characters andanticipate events, basedupon my own experience,what has been read so farand knowledge of othersimilar texts – identifying arange of evidence withinand beyond the text tosupport opinion.I can discuss the plausibilityof my predictions andcategorise them as likely /unlikely based on priorreading.                               | I can make predictionsabout characters, plots andthemes of stories basedupon knowledge of fictiongenres, knowledge of theworld and from readingother similar texts.I can make predictionsusing evidence stated andimplied.I can compare mypredictions with the eventsthat occurred and considerwhy my predictions wereaccurate, plausible, or offthe mark.             |  |  |  |
|--|--|---|---|---|--|--|--|--|--|
|  | Explain  |   |   |   |  |  |  |  |  |
| Identify mainthemes andideasin arangeofbooks | I can pick out significant events,incidents or information that occurthrough a text.I can link familiar story themes totheir own experiences; illness, gettinglost, going away.  | I can discuss familiar story themesthat they have read or heard.I can give reasons why thingshappen or change over the courseof a narrative.  | I can identify typical storythemes; trials and forfeits,good and evil, weak overstrong, wise and foolish.I can discuss how characters'feelings, behaviour andrelationships change over atext.   | I can identify social,moral or cultural issuesor themes in stories; thedilemmas faced anddealt with by charactersor the moral of thestory.I can link cause andeffect in narratives andrecounts.I can explain how ideasare developed in non-fiction texts.   | I can begin to distinguishbetween plot events /details and the main themesin the texts they read.I can identify how ideas andthemes are explored anddeveloped over a text; howa story opening can link toits ending or how characterschange over a narrative.I can explain how a detailedpicture can emerge from anon- fiction text byexamining different aspectsof the topic. | I can understand how awriter develops themes,ideas or points of view overa text.I can identify how thenarrative or author's voiceinfluences the reader'spoint of view and framestheir understanding.I can discuss how this canchange over the course ofthe text.In non-fiction texts, I candiscuss how the sense ofthe writer can develop overa text; autobiographies. |  |  |  |

| Identify  | I can Identify and compare basic storyelements; beginnings and endings indifferent stories.I can note some of the features of non-fiction texts, including layout, contents,use of pictures, illustrations anddiagrams.I can recite poems with predictable andrepeating patterns, extending andinventing patterns and playing with | I can identify and discuss storyelements such as setting, events,characters, and the way thatproblems develop and get resolved.I can explain organisational featuresof texts, including alphabetical orderlayout, diagrams, captions,hyperlinks and bullet points.I can identify and discuss patternsof rhythm, rhyme and other | I can investigate the featuresof traditional stories –openings and endings, howevents and new characters areintroduced, how problems areresolved.I can explain how theorganisational features of non-fiction texts support the readerin finding information orresearching a topic. | I can explore narrativeorder (introduction, buildup, crisis, resolution andconclusion) and howscenes are built up andconcluded throughdescription, action anddialogue.I can identify the mainfeatures of non- fictiontexts including headings,              | I can compare the structureof different stories todiscover how they differ inpace, build up, sequence,complication and resolution.I can identify the features ofdifferent non- fiction text,including content, structure,vocabulary, style, layout andpurpose; recounts,instructions, explanations, | I understand aspects ofnarrative structure; howparagraphs build up anarrative, how chapters orparagraphs are linkedtogether.I understand how writersuse the features andstructure of informationtexts to help convey theirideas or information.                                 |
|---|--|---|--|---|---|---|
| howstructureandpresentationcontribute tomeaning | rhyme.   | features which influence the soundof a poem.  | I can distinguish betweenrhyming and non- rhymingpoetry and comment on theimpact of the poem's layout.   | captions, lists, bulletpoints and understandhow these support thereader in gaininginformation efficiently.I can identify differentpatterns of rhyme andverse in poetry;choruses, rhymingcouplets, alternate linerhymes and read thesealoud effectively. | persuasive writing andargument.I can read poems bysignificant poets and identifywhat is distinctive about thestyle or presentation of theirpoems.   | I can analyse how thestructure or organisation ofa poem supports theexpression of moods,feelings and attitudes.   |
| Makingcomparisonswithin andacross atext.                    | I can discuss and compare events ortopics they have read about or havelistened to.   | I can identify, collect and comparecommon themes in stories andpoems.I can make comparisons ofcharacters and events in narratives.I can compare the informationabout different topics in non-fictiontexts.  | I can make comparisonsbetween events in narrative orinformation texts on the sametopic or theme.I can compare and contrastwriting by the same author.  | I can collect informationto compare and contrastevents, characters orideas.I can compare andcontrast books andpoems on similarthemes.   | I can make comparisonsbetween the ways thatdifferent characters orevents are presented.I can compare the way thatideas or themes arepresented in different textsor in different versions(including other media; film)of the same text.  | I can make comparisonsand draw contrastsbetween different elementsof a text and across texts.I can compare and contrastthe work of a single author.Investigate differentversions of the same storyor different books on thesame topic, identifyingsimilarities and differences. |